Man caught carrying a knife claimed he found it after attack on friend

Police on the scene after the incident

Defendant gets six months for weapons and drugs offences

By Tom Dare

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

A MAN who claimed he was caught carrying a knife and cannabis after his friend had been stabbed in Harlow has been jailed.

Kwasi Boadi, 26, pleaded guilty to possession of a bladed weapon and possession of cannabis at Chelmsford Crown Court after being stopped by police following the stabbing of a man in the town centre on April 21.

Boadi was searched and found to be carrying a small quantity of cannabis and a 10-inch knife, which he claimed he picked up in the street after he and his friend were attacked from behind.

His friend, a 24-year-old man, was punched and kicked to the floor and stabbed in his leg, arms and torso.

Avoid

Speaking for the prosecution, Christopher Kerr told the court how Boadi had tried to avoid the police prior to his arrest, failing to stop for them before being apprehended in Asda.

He also added that there was no CCTV evidence that Boadi had picked the knife up from the floor of the high street.

However, arguing for the defence, barrister Alexander Dunn told the court how Boadi had been hit from behind while out with his friend on the evening of April 21, and when on the ground, noticed the knife in a sheath in front of him.

Having been stabbed in the past, Mr Dunn said, Boadi instinctively grabbed the knife and ran off.

Passing sentence on Thursday, May 25, Judge Recorder Karim Khalil QC referenced Boadi's previous convictions on cannabis and weapons offences, telling him that "given your previous convictions, it is hard to credit your account of the story with the favour you might want from a sentencing judge".

Previous

He added that based on his previous offences he felt "quite unable to bring sentencing below the minimum time required," before sentencing him to six months in prison and ordering the forfeiture and destruction of the cannabis and knife.

Council selects its leadership team at annual meeting

JON Clempner was re-named leader of Harlow Council at their annual meeting last Thursday.

The ruling Labour group of the authority formed the cabinet positions with Emma Toal again taking the role of deputy leader.

Conservative Sue Livings was elected chairman of the council, replacing Edna Stevens, and will fulfil civic and ceremonial duties throughout the year.

Maggie Hulcoop was named vice-chairman. Harlow Council pledged to support St Clare Hospice as their chosen charity.

The meeting began with a minute's silence to remember victims of the Manchester bombing on Monday, May 22, and also local historian Ron Bill who recently passed away.

The full cabinet is: Jon Clempner – leader; Emma Toal – deputy leader and portfolio holder for youth and community; Mike Danvers – portfolio holder for resources; Mark Wilkinson – portfolio holder for housing; Tony Durcan – portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise; Danny Purton – portfolio holder for the environment; Waida Forman – portfolio holder for governance.

Firefighters save woman from burning bungalow

FIREFIGHTERS rescued a woman from a Harlow bungalow after smoke was seen coming from her kitchen.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service dispatched two fire engines from Harlow Fire Station to the property in Upper Mealines at 5.02am last Thursday (May 25).

A spokesman said: "Neighbours told the firefighters there might be someone inside, so the crew immediately broke down the door and entered the property where they found a woman."

Firefighters brought her outside and quickly extinguished the small fire using a dry powder extinguisher.

The woman suffered slight smoke inhalation and was left in the care of the ambulance service.

Caught

The fire started from the cooker which had been accidentally left on and caught light to some papers.

As the kitchen door had been closed, the smoke had not spread to the rest of the property.

The kitchen only suffered minor damage.

Armed robber stole cash from convenience store

AN armed robber has made off with a substantial sum of cash from a Harlow shop after threatening a staff member with a penknife.

Police are appealing for witnesses following the robbery at a shop in Maunds Hatch, Harlow on Thursday, May 11.

Demanding

A man reportedly came into the Co-op store just before 11pm and threatened a member of staff with a pen knife before demanding cash from the till.

He then made off with a three figure sum of cash in the direction of the nearby Longwood Primary School.

He was described as white, around 6ft tall and was wearing a black beanie hat. His face was covered by a stripy scarf and he also wore a green jacket.

Nobody was injured during the incident.

Dementia is Britain's most feared illness

Society aim to increase awareness of dementia

THE Alzheimer's Society has predicted dementia will overtake heart disease and cancer to be the 21st century's biggest killer.

The charity is raising awareness of dementia which is expected to rise by 32 per cent by 2025 in Harlow where 1,000 people are currently thought to have associated conditions.

Alzheimer's Society, based in Latton Bush, Harlow, has just finished Dementia Awareness Week and Marion Howell, charity services manager, feels it is important for people not to be fearful.

She said: "For the week we have done events around the whole of the West Essex area, we have tried to encourage people to unite against dementia.

"By 2040 it is going to be the illness that most people suffer and die from because people are living longer. We have done a big campaign. We encourage people to come together."

Dementia is associated with the decline of the brain and links to problems such as memory loss, thinking speed and mental agility.

Age

It usually occurs in people over the age of 65.

A survey from NHS Providers recently found dementia is the most feared illness.

Ms Howell said: "There is a feeling that your life is over with dementia. What we have tried to do is to say that people can live well with dementia. It is about trying to change.

"Key to that is having organisations in town that know how to support people with dementia. People who go into the supermarket for example may feel lost.

"Your perception also changes when you have dementia.

"When organisations have trained staff, they can support and encourage those with dementia.

"It is simple things that people are not aware of that can make an amazing difference. As a result that person can still go out with confidence."

Harlow bank Halifax has recently trained its staff to become dementia friends, an initiative launched by the then-government in 2012, to support people with the illness.

Harlow's Alps heaped behind Tesco on Edinburgh Way

Warehouse proposal could level town's 'Alps'

A BUILDING site, described as Harlow's Alps, could soon be an industrial warehouse if planning permission is gained. Mounds of earth are currently being heaped on land behind Tesco in Edinburgh Way as developer Chancerygate eyes the spot in the town's industrial centre. The firm is hoping to get planning permission on the site in East Place, Harlow, this summer to build a series of industrial units. The 4.5-acre development site was acquired in March by Chancerygate which now wants to build seven units ranging in size from 5,000sq ft to 35,000sq ft.

Lorry loads of earth have been seen driving into the site.

Family backs creation of new Norrie Disease charity

Foundation has connected Fullicks to nationwide support network

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE family of a Harlow teenager with an extremely rare disease are grateful a charity now exists to help their son.

Rhys Fullick, 19, of Rundells, Harlow, is one of just 25 nationwide to have Norrie disease. As a result he is blind and has difficulty hearing.

This month a specialist charity, the Norrie Disease Foundation (NDF), has been established to the delight of Rhys' mother Laura Fullick.

She said: "Rhys has been blind since birth and does not go out on his own. He was diagnosed when he was around three months old.

Reacting

"I did not realise that he was blind straight away. He was not reacting or smiling when he should have been. It was hard at first but we found charity Sense who have been very good."

Rhys now attends New College in Worcester. His mother said he has a great sense of humour, loves animals and learning languages.

Norrie Disease only affects boys and can also lead to autism, cognitive impairment and delayed development – none of which Rhys has as it affects each child differently. NDF promotes much needed research into Norrie Disease.

Mrs Fullick, who also has a 16-year-old daughter called Amber, continued: "It is support for families. We have got to meet families with diagnosed children as we had never met any before.

Research

"There is also the research side, there is more to find out. They had the launch recently at Great Ormond Street Hospital and that was really nice."

Michael Fullick, Rhys' father, said: "It was fantastic to attend the launch of the Norrie Disease Foundation and to meet other adults with Norrie to see what the future will hold for Rhys.

"We know how inspirational it will be for other families with younger children to meet the older ones.

"While it may not be relevant to Rhys, the research the charity is committed to doing could make all of the difference to the life of children in the community with Norrie disease.

Film fans star struck at sci-fi convention

Visitors brushed shoulders with actors at debut event

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

STARS of the big and small screen were in town for the first ever Harlow Film and TV Con.

The Harvey Centre hosted the event on Saturday and Sunday, May 20 and 21, which allowed customers to meet actors, see film memorabilia and take advantage of offers from shopping outlets.

The cast included: Hugh Mitchell, who played Colin Creevey in Harry Potter; Marc Silk, voice of Scooby-Doo and Aks Moe in Star Wars; and Ross Mullan, who played a White Walker in Game of Thrones and several characters in Doctor Who.

Collective

The UK 501st Garrison, a collective of Star Wars fans, also attended in customary fancy dress.

Bryan Young, Harvey Centre manager, said: "This was the first event that we have ever run like this and it was a huge success."

"I would like to thank everyone that got involved. It was a real attraction for families, TV fans and film buffs alike, with lots to see and do across the entire weekend."

POLICE INVESTIGATION: Trio are arrested, then released, after a 39-year-old Community in shock after man's murder on 'close-knit' estate

By Sophie Finnegan
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS of Milwards in Harlow have been left shocked after a Latvian man was murdered in "a close-knit community."

Andrej Arhipovs, 39, was discovered inside a Volvo at around 11.45pm last Sunday with severe head injuries.

Despite best efforts from the emergency services, he died from his injuries at Princess Alexandra Hospital on Bank Holiday Monday.

Forensics

Police cordoned off the area while forensics examined the scene as a murder enquiry got under way.

Mrs Jeanette Webb has lived on the street for 30 years.

She said: "I heard the helicopter around midnight to 1am, there were police and ambulance everywhere and all the road was blocked off. I'm very shocked about what's happened it's a pretty quiet street. You can hear people coming home from the pub but that's about it, everyone gets on with everyone round here."

A police car in the quiet street which was left stunned by the discovery

Witnesses claim they saw five police cars and a helicopter late on Sunday.

Police attend the scene at Milwards, where the man was found badly injured

The Volvo XC90, where the man was found, was taken away by a lorry the next morning.

Another resident, Xiaoming Cheng, has lived in the road for ten years. She said: "I saw lots of bright blue lights so I opened my window and there were lots of ambulance and police.

"I'm directly opposite the house who owns the car and they're always smoking outside.

"On Sunday evening, before everything happened, I saw a man walking quite strange in the garden opposite to mine, I think man discovered with head injuries in a quiet street dies in hospital

The stabbing happened in Old Road, near the White Horse

Appeal for witnesses following stab attack

A MAN was stabbed in the back and chest in the middle of the afternoon near a Harlow pub.

Police are appealing for witnesses after the stabbing in Old Road, Harlow, at around 1.15pm last Friday (May 26).

A man was walking close to the White Horse pub when he was approached from behind and stabbed in the chest and back.

Victim

The suspect then ran off and the victim was taken to hospital for his injuries. He has since been discharged.

The suspect has been described as being a white man, between 5ft 8in and 5ft 10in, aged in his 40s and of a stocky build.

He had dark scruffy hair and wore shorts and a blue polo shirt.

Anyone with information is asked to contact Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

he was trying to get into the house and there were two boys wearing shorts pushing him in.

"That house has always got a few people moving in and out, there's always different people there."

The street has been to be trying to get back to normal, with children playing and people sat outside in their gardens or washing their cars, despite the police cars and community police officers patrolling the area.

Jamie Corbett, who lives a few doors down from where the incident happened, said: "We moved in here in January, everyone seems quite friendly. It seems to be quite a close-knit community.

"We were away so didn't hear anything or see anything but the police were knocking door to door for information."

Another resident, Thomas Zajac, said: "The police took evidence in the morning about midnight the helicopter flew over. I've lived here for a few years and it's usually quiet, sometimes it's a bit noisy with barbecues and parties."

A 24-year-old man from Bishop's Stortford and two men aged 35 and 40 from Harlow have been arrested on suspicion of murder.

They have since been released under investigation as police investigate the circumstances leading up to the man's death.

Online honour for teacher who can make learning fun

A HARLOW teacher, whose online videos have made science and maths fun for thousands, has been honoured by YouTube.

Jennifer Jermy, 34, of Church Langley, Harlow, has made hundreds of films under the Primrose Kitten moniker and her channel has more than 30,000 subscribers.

YouTube bosses were impressed enough to invite her on their Next Up class of 2017, an all-expenses paid bootcamp for writing, editing and production techniques in London.

Mrs Jermy, who teaches at Presdales School in Ware, said: "I started my channel two and a half years ago to help students cope with the nationwide lack of science and maths teachers, a situation which is only getting worse.

"Schools struggle to recruit teachers and lots of students end up paying for private tutors, I want to provide high quality lessons regardless of the ability to pay."

Astonished

After she was selected for the bootcamp she said: "I'm astonished. I thought I might as well give it a go and enter but I never thought I would be selected."

Mrs Jermy films at home and her videos can explain difficult subjects, go through a syllabus and give exam technique tips.

This week she filmed a good luck message to students about to take a GCSE science exam.

Youngsters inspire 75-mile charity trek

Duo will walk to Brighton in fundraising challenge

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A PAIR of Harlow men will walk to Brighton in a 24-hour effort for two teenagers with health problems.

Kyle Jagers and rambling buddy Andy Welch will set off on their 75-mile adventure tomorrow (June 2) with a goal of raising £500 to be split between charities Ellie's Fund and Pact for Autism.

Their inspiration is to help Harlow girl Ellie Darby-Prangnell, 17, who has muscle wasting condition spinal muscular atrophy type 2 (SMA) and is in a wheelchair.

Her brother Ewan has autism and is supported by Pact, a service based in Latton Bush Centre, Southern Way, Harlow.

Mr Jagers, 53, of Upper Stoney Field, Harlow, said: "We have never done this much walking before and it will be a challenge.

"We have done a lot of training but it can be hard to find the time to walk for that long."

As a former chairman of Harlow Theatre Company, Mr Jagers has ties to director Andrew Prangnell and Ellie, his daughter, appeared in production Rearrange the Furniture at Victoria Hall Theatre.

Mr Jagers, operations manager at a firm in London, said: "SMA is not a well-known disease and they don't get a lot of funding.

"She is in a wheelchair for the rest of her life and her brother is autistic. The target is £500 but I am hoping to exceed that for them."

Footpaths

The walkers will use Google to map their route and they plan to stick to footpaths and B roads as family friend Jim Thompson provides supplies and support from a car.

Mr Jagers continued: "We are quite fit but by comparison the training is just short bursts. But when we see a challenge we go for it."

Phil Waite

Standing up for Harlow and the Villages

"There is just a week to go until the General Election on Thursday the 8th of June. I will stand up for Harlow, and fight for the investment that our community needs, in our young people, in our safety, hospital, in social care, and in well paid jobs in Harlow. I would appreciate your support and it would be great if you could display the poster below in your window".

Fighting for housing and infrastructure

Labour will:

- ✓ Labour will back first-time buyers and build the homes we need.
- ✓ This will include 100,000 genuinely affordable homes to rent and buy a year, by the end of the next Parliament
- ✓ Labour will invest in the necessary infrastructure, in our hospital, our roads, and our schools to support housing

FULLY COSTED

"We worry about whether our children will ever be able to move out. We can't help them with a deposit and renting is so expensive. There's not enough social housing in Harlow. Only Labour will give our kids the possibility of living independently one day".

GENERAL ELECTION

Hopefuls put through paces at hustings

THE candidates hoping to become Harlow's MP for the next five years faced a vocal audience at a hustings event in the town.

All five candidates also contended with each other as they put forward the case why voters should choose their party at the general election polls on June 8.

They addressed issues including the future of the Princess Alexandra Hospital, funding for the town's schools, immigration and the economy at St Paul's Church on Thursday (May 23).

Defending the seat he holds for the Conservatives, Robert Halfon asked the electorate to help him in "building an even better Harlow".

He said he had brought thousands of jobs and millions of pounds of investment to the town since he was elected in 2010.

"Judge me not just on tonight, but on my record," he said. "I'm proud of the record of the Conservative government in rebuilding our economy. I will be a strong voice for Harlow in Parliament."

Labour candidate Phil Waite took a different view adding: "There are only two parties in this town that can win – the Tories and us. Under Labour, you and your family would be better off."

He said Labour would invest in schools, the fire service and police force, rebuild the Princess Alexandra

Hospital and build a million homes. "The economy has been a disaster since the Tories took over. Labour offers a message of hope."

Green candidate Hannah Clare was frank with voters.

She said: "I'm not expecting to be Harlow's next MP, much as I would like to. What I can say is we have nearly 500 general election candidates standing up for what matters. What we need to do is stand up for our future."

Mark Gough, standing for Ukip, said: "This election is apparently all about Brexit. If that's the case, if you want a true Brexitite who will go in and bat for Harlow – I am that man. I'm the only leaver in town."

He pledged to cut immigration, secure Britain, put the NHS before foreign aid, protect British culture and ensure fair democracy.

Liberal Democrat Geoff Seeff completed the line-up, and presented the audience with a stark choice.

He said: "Ukip is irrelevant, Labour won't help you – we are looking at the death throes of the party. You know where you are Robert – he might look to recall why the European Court of Justice was created."

"If you have any doubts about the process, how it is being done, whether it can be achieved, the Liberal Democrats can represent you."

Candidates questioned on education provision

Resident's fears over growing classes and shrinking morale

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

GENERAL election candidates have responded to a Harlow teacher's cry that students are not getting a good enough education.

Steven Lister, 30, of Katherines, Harlow, feels the Tory government's record on schools requires improvement and pledged his support to Labour.

He said: "Class sizes are going up, the number of teachers is going down and morale is low. Inevitably this has an effect on the quality of teaching children are getting."

"It's getting harder and harder to attract good people into teaching because it is getting such a poor reputation."

"Most teachers are driven by a passion for helping young people get the best start in life. If they feel they can't do that because the system is working against them, then they are de-motivated and choose different professions."

Phil Waite, Labour candidate for Harlow, said proposed Conservative cuts to education could see Harlow schools lose a combined £5.5million.

He said: "Parents of children at school in Harlow will know that headteachers already have to cut staff to meet rising costs. But believe me, this is the thin end of the wedge."

"If we continue this way, our schools will be turning out young people who do not have the skills and confidence to meet the many challenges that lie ahead of them."

Labour has announced a £6billion boost to school budgets by the end of the government term.

The figure quoted was rubbished by Tory candidate Robert Halfon. He said: "New funding proposals mean almost every primary school in Harlow will see an increase. No school funding will be cut."

"Theresa May has pledged to increase school funding by £4billion overall. I'm proud that more Harlow children are in good or outstanding schools than ever before."

The Harlow Star approached all five who are standing in the election on Thursday, June 8.

Hannah Clare, Green Party candidate, said: "By 2020, 99.9 per cent of schools will be hit by a funding cut. As someone who works in education I know the challenges Harlow teachers face."

"The Green Party would invest £7billion in the education system to fill the funding gap created by years of under investment and cuts."

"In addition we would abolish SATs at Year 6 and abolish university tuition fees."

Geoff Seeff, Liberal Democrat, said:

Minister defends schools funding

A GOVERNMENT minister has defended school funding at an event in Harlow – saying that historic amounts were being spent on schools.

Nick Gibb, the minister of state for schools, was speaking at the Holy Cross Catholic Primary Academy during a visit to Harlow to support Conservative party candidate Robert Halfon.

Mr Gibb said: "Historically we have underfunded some areas of the country and one of those areas that has been underfunded is Essex and this school in particular."

"There are cost pressures that are felt right across the public sector. We felt that it was very important that we have in place the national funding formula, a fairer system that addresses the historic unfairness in our funding system that has been unfair for over a decade."

MP hopefuls target youth vote

Candidates answer questions from students about tuition fees and Brexit process

Students at a general election hustings at Harlow college

THE five hopefuls vying to become Harlow's next MP faced questions from young people as part of our #myvote series ahead of the general election. Here are the six points.

■ UNIVERSITY

Most parties are offering concessions on fees. Phil Waite, representing Labour, said it was an "absolute outrage" that people entering university had to pay and that his party would scrap tuition fees for university students, as would Hannah Clare, standing for the Green Party, stating: "Education is a right, not a privilege."

Geoff Seeff, for the Liberal Democrats, warned that "somebody has to pay for that somewhere" and that his party would reinstate maintenance grants.

Ukip's Mark Gough, said he would cut tuition fees for students in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths) subjects, while Conservative, Robert Halfon, said: "We have to be fair to students and fair to the taxpayer."

■ RAILWAYS

The battle is on over private versus public ownership. Responding to student Holly Humphreys' question about the burden of bus and rail fares, Mr Halfon said £500 million had been invested in transport subsidies for young people and students.

Mr Gough said privatisation of the railways "hasn't worked properly" and promised to scrap HS2 in favour of improved east-west links.

Mr Waite and Ms Clare both said they would re-nationalise the railways and increase oversight of bus services.

"It's very simple to fix by taking the profit out," Mr Waite said. Dr Seeff said the Liberal Democrats "wouldn't interfere" with the current system.

■ BREXIT

Leaving the EU is taking centre stage. Emily Cooper asked whether Brexit was affecting the election.

Dr Seeff said that a vote for his party would help prevent a hard Brexit, following the result of last year's referendum.

"Fifty-two per cent to 48 per cent is not democracy if the 52 ride roughshod over the 48," Dr Seeff added.

Mr Gough argued: "It's crazy to be giving money to the EU when we have foodbanks and an underfunded NHS."

Ms Clare said Green policy was to guarantee rights for EU citizens in the UK post-Brexit, Mr Waite said Labour recognised the referendum result and Mr Halfon said under the Tories the UK would leave the single market and take control of its borders.

■ OLDER VOTERS

Parties admit policies target older voters. Zack Pace, who asked what the parties were doing to encourage young voters, was told by Mr Halfon that he had been the first MP to take on apprentices in his team and had given many aspiring MPs from Harlow work experience.

"That's the best way to get young people involved in politics," he added.

Twenty-four-year-old Ms Clare attacked a lack of policies for younger voters among the major parties. She said: "What we are offered is just not interesting to young people."

Mr Waite also acknowledged that older people vote more, so policies are "skewed" towards them, while Mr Gough and Dr Seeff both said politics affects peoples' lives and appealed to young people to get involved.

■ VOTING AGE

There's a split over lowering it. Jordan Dobson asked whether the minimum voting age should be lowered to 16. Labour are in favour of changing the law. Mr Waite said: "As a father of three who are over 16, I think they were informed enough at the time to make a decision."

Ms Clare said there should be "no taxation without representation".

The Conservatives and Ukip are against changing the law, while Dr Seeff argued the country should adopt proportional representation instead of first past the post.

■ THE PAH

Candidates want it to be rebuilt. Answering Angus Gauld's question about the future of Princess Alexandra Hospital, Mr Waite said: "It needs immediate investment the day we are elected, and long-term it needs rebuilding."

Ms Clare agreed, and Mr Halfon said it would be one of the five highest-priority hospitals in the country for investment under the Conservatives and that under the current government it had more doctors and nurses.

Mr Gough said he would scrap hospital car parking charges and said private investments in the NHS had incurred "debts that would make pay day loan sharks embarrassed".

Dr Seeff said investment should be made in preventing hospital admissions through public health education, accident prevention and screening.

■ CONSERVATIVES

Robert Halfon fought hard

IN A few weeks the people of Harlow will have an important decision to make, whether or not to return Robert Halfon as their MP.

I do not know of another MP who has fought so hard to improve the lives of the people they represent. The list of campaigns he has fought and won on our behalf is bafflingly long, too many to mention in one letter.

First and foremost has been his continuing fight to cut the cost of living for working people, chief amongst which is his ongoing campaign to cut and freeze the cost of fuel. So successful has this campaign been that it has been the longest freeze in fuel duty for 20 years, resulting in an actual cut in 2011. The average motorist now saves £11 every time they fill up at the pump.

Robert has voted for lower taxes for lower earners – cutting income tax for 26 million people. 4,000 people in Harlow no longer pay income tax. The rate at which you begin to pay tax has now risen as well. From 2010 the personal tax free allowance has risen from around £6,000 to £11,000 and now to £12,500. As a result of these increases to the personal allowance a typical basic rate taxpayer will be £905 better off.

Robert voted for the biggest real terms increase in the minimum wage since 2008 and increase of the apprenticeship wage by 20 per cent. He also voted to introduce a compulsory National Living Wage, helping some of the lowest paid in our society.

Not many people will know that Robert voted to introduce an annual banker's tax which raises £2.5 – £3 billion each year to fund emergency services such as the Herts and Essex air ambulance service.

Robert has also voted to extend free school meals to disadvantaged students at FE colleges including Harlow College. He has worked tirelessly to support many local charities and volunteer services. He campaigned for the local bingo hall to have bingo duty cut and succeeded. He worked to secure that Harlow received Enterprise Zone status that will create 5000 skilled research and development jobs for the people of Harlow.

Robert has done countless good work for the people of Harlow and is the best MP this town has ever had. The choice on June 8 is clear, vote for Harlow, vote Robert Halfon.

■ LABOUR

Manifesto is outstanding

IN THE 2015 general election I was proud to represent the Green Party in Harlow. I felt, at the time, that Labour was not offering enough that was different to the Conservatives and accused them of a Torylite Manifesto.

However, the new Labour manifesto is quite outstanding and offers voters a genuine choice for 2017. A choice between the penny pinching cuts of the Tory Party or an aspirational programme of investment and development from Labour. Cuts in schools – leading to larger classes and teacher redundancies or investment in education, a return of the ESA and the scrapping of tuition fees. Cuts in Social Care and Health or investment in our wonderful NHS with well deserved pay rises for nurses. Cuts in policing and the fire service or investment and 10,000 new police officers and 3,000 new fire fighters. More privatisation of national assets or railways and water back in public ownership. The choice is pretty clear and Phil Waite has my 100 per cent support as an excellent candidate. The people of Harlow deserve better than Tory Robert Halfon, who has voted against the interests of Harlow people on numerous occasions. The people of Harlow deserve Phil Waite as Labour MP – serving the town and helping to deliver a wide range of popular, well thought out and costed Labour policies.

■ FUTURE MPS

Focus on the community

AS THE election campaigns have started for the general election on June 8, I have seen one thing, most candidates standing for MP only talk about their party manifesto and not what they will do for the constituency they will be elected for specifically, candidates attack each other on what the competition has done for people but don't really say to constituents what they will do for the particular area, only talk on a national level.

However, some candidates do try to apply their party manifesto to their communities but sometimes (maybe majority) of the time it seems to be washed away as they don't specifically make points obvious on the community benefits, let's say for example, if a party says they will bring an X amount of police officers on the streets of Britain, well that's great news, but how many of those officers will be on the streets where I live? I know this can be hard to say, but at least try to make the manifesto more relevant to the constituency.

I know that each candidate has to promote their party, so they can be on the government and not the opposition, however as constituents, we have the right to know what each candidate will do for the community, as most people know what the parties mean on a national level.

After all the social media posts, I can happily tell you what the party manifestos are for all the parties, so when candidates repeat it in every talk they do, it gets quite frustrating. You have to apply the manifesto to your community as the candidates don't actually tell you what they specifically will do for you.

Young people like myself care more for our community and when candidates only talk on a national level, it is really hard to choose who to vote for, as you don't know how each candidate will make the place you live, work or study better.

So, all I say to our candidates tell people what you are going to do for them specifically, everyone knows what the parties will do as a whole for the country, but constituents want to know what makes you the perfect individual that will voice our town in Parliament! This is what will make you more appealing to the voters, not party manifestos!

■ LIB DEMS

The only party for remainers

AS A lifelong supporter, I never thought I would vote other than Conservative at a general election. Those traditional values of private enterprise, low taxation and small state I still hold dear. Furthermore, Robert Halfon MP has served Harlow in an exemplary fashion. So why have I decided to vote Liberal Democrat on June 8?

In a word, Brexit. The Liberal Democrats are the only mainstream party offering us the opportunity to remain. I share the views and fears of Ken Clarke and Michael Heseltine over the political impoverishment and economic harikari for Britain implicit in the misguided decision reached on June 23 last. At the very least the country should have the right to confirm or otherwise that decision, with a second referendum, in the light of whatever departure deal the country strikes with the EU.

What is needed is a substantial body of support for the Lib Dems on June 8. Then, if Ken Clarke is correct in his claim that 100 Tory MPs wish to reject Brexit, the general election and our future relations with the EU may not be the foregone conclusion popularly believed.

■ EDUCATION

May's grammar policy a disaster

AT LAST Thursday's general election hustings, I tried to make a contribution to the debate on education, but I was not called on to speak. Here now is what I would have said:

I entered the teaching profession at a fairly late stage in my career, after many years in industry. I started with an aircraft apprenticeship and later obtained a physics degree, which qualified me to teach. My first post was in a boys' secondary modern in East London. Talk about being thrown in at the deep end! At the end of my first day, I was more shattered physically, mentally and emotionally than I had ever been before, and than I have ever been since. Amazingly, I survived and I went back the next day. Eventually, I believe I became a reasonably competent teacher – I claim no more and no less. While I was at that school, it was combined with two other local schools and became a mixed comprehensive. The transformation was fantastic. With that experience, I will defend the principle of comprehensive education against all-comers. A properly resourced comprehensive, with a sufficiently flexible curriculum, and embedded in its community, can cater for the vast majority of our children.

That principle is under attack from Theresa May's proposal to reintroduce grammar schools. A grammar school may or may not be good in itself. But by definition, its existence implies the parallel existence of the equivalent of secondary moderns for the majority, which are inevitably seen as inferior; and their pupils failures at 11.

Any parents with school age or pre-school age children, must surely put education high in their priorities when deciding how to vote. The return of grammar schools would be a disaster for future generations of children. Please don't let it happen.

Finally, a few other things that I learned during my years at the chalk face. Every class is different. Every class that ever existed is a mixed ability class. The art of successful teaching lies in responding to those variables. And ancillary staff, who are sometimes underrated, are an important resource. My own teaching was at its most effective when I had a really good lab technician in support.

■ TORY CUTS

Vulnerable are not protected

THE claim by Robert Halfon, echoing Tory Central Office's set of model answers, that "the most vulnerable" have been protected in the cuts imposed on financial support for people with disabilities, is thoroughly dishonest and misleading.

Think what it means – so long as there is even a small group of people with disabilities, identified as "the most vulnerable" who are spared the cuts, that claim will technically be true. Meanwhile the others who have been identified as less vulnerable in some way, including many who are extremely vulnerable indeed, can go to the wall.

The poet William Blake put it well, "A truth that's told with bad intent beats all the lies you could invent".

This "truth" about how "the most vulnerable" have been protected so far involves using them as camouflage for the cruel cuts which have hurt so many who are in reality very vulnerable indeed.

And if people vote for Tory candidates in this election they will be ensuring that these cuts, and indeed worse cuts to come, will continue for years ahead.

To quote Jeremy Corbyn "It doesn't have to be this way."

■ FUNDING

No school will lose funding

IT WAS announced in the Conservative Manifesto that no school would lose funding under the new funding proposals and £4 billion will be added to the schools budget. In fact, the vast majority of Harlow schools would gain funding – some up to 12 per cent.

There are also more schools rated good and outstanding today than ever before. This means that more than 1.8 million more children are in good and outstanding schools than in 2010 when the Conservative coalition government came into power.

This should be championed and I look forward to seeing the achievements a Conservative government could bring.

■ SAMARITANS

Take part in volunteer week

SAMARITANS at Cross Street in Ware are joining volunteer organisations across the UK this Volunteers Week (June 1 to 7) to show how giving your time can make a huge difference to the lives of others.

The branch is part of a network of 201 centres with more than 20,000 volunteers across the UK and Ireland who offer emotional support to anyone who's feeling overwhelmed, for whatever reason, by phone, email, text, letter or face to face.

Volunteer Jenny Richardson, who is also director of Herts and Essex (Ware) Samaritans and has been a volunteer for nine years, said: "Samaritans volunteers in Ware make a difference everywhere from schools, workplaces, communities, festivals and events, to prisons, custody suites and train stations.

"We also have a wonderful Friends group and volunteers who fundraise for us, organising quiz nights and doing collections at local supermarkets. As always, we will be attending Ware Carnival this summer where the local community are incredibly supportive of us.

I would like to thank all 132 of our volunteers for the huge support they give our callers 24 hours a day, week-in, week-out, and their families for supporting them in doing this important role in the community.

Samaritans services wouldn't exist without our volunteers, and I want them to know 'you make the difference' and Samaritans is proud to have you on board."

We are always in need of new volunteers to join us too, so if this is something that interests you, please get in touch at: waresams@yahoo.co.uk

For more information, photos and interviews with volunteers, please contact the branch on 07518 264420 or email: waresams@yahoo.co.uk

Robert Halfon

Working Hard for Harlow

"I first met Robert seven years ago whilst he was attending one of his many scheduled diary events. I have never met another man with the work ethic and commitment he has. He has time for everyone & he puts his constituency first at all times."

- David Evans, Harlow Resident

"Harlow is blessed to have had Robert Halfon as their Member of Parliament and it's been a pleasure working with him. I so hope the new Hospital comes off. I know Robert will keep up the hard work."

- Phil Morley, Chief Executive of Harlow Hospital 2014 - 2017

"Robert is a compassionate politician who cares a great deal about the people he represents, he will always stand up and fight for what he believes in. I'm pleased to say that I know Robert personally and he is as good a man as he is a politician."

- Trevor Morris, Harlow Resident

Dear Resident,

I've been working hard for Harlow and the villages every day since you first backed me in 2010 to represent you. Whenever I'm speaking to residents, our priorities are clear:

- 1) Building an Even Better Harlow: I have secured £millions of Government investment to bring more jobs, apprenticeships, housing & infrastructure back to our town and villages. £400m is relocating Public Health England to Harlow, bringing thousands of jobs. £19m is upgrading our roads to reduce congestion. £500K is supporting the delivery of 8,500 new affordable homes. I will continue to strive to bring investment into Harlow and the villages.
- 2) Championing Apprenticeships and Education: I've worked hard to bring many millions of pounds of Government funding to Harlow schools, including the new Sir Charles Kao Technical School which has educated hundreds of Harlow children. I also fought hard for the £6m of Pupil Premium, which has gone to our schools to support disadvantaged pupils. I'm proud more Harlow children are being taught in good or outstanding schools than ever before. Spending on schools is at a record level. The Government's new funding proposals mean almost every Primary School in Harlow will see an increase. No school's funding will be cut. Theresa May has pledged to increase school funding by £4 billion. I will continue to champion the apprenticeships and education our town and villages need.
- 3) Cutting the Cost of Living: For many years, I've campaigned hard to keep fuel duty frozen. The Government will introduce a price cap to stop rip-off energy bills. I campaigned successfully for the National Living Wage and a significant tax cut for lower earners to help Harlow workers. Pensions will continue to rise in line with inflation or average earnings, whichever is higher. I will continue to work hard to cut the cost of living for Harlow families.
- 4) Ensuring Brexit Means Brexit: As I pledged the day after the EU referendum, I've consistently voted to give our Prime Minister the power to trigger Article 50 and leave the European Union. I will fully support Theresa May to get the best deal for an independent Britain.
- 5) Protecting our NHS: I was born with Spastic Diplegia and without the help of Great Ormond Street Hospital, I would never have been able to walk. I'll always be passionate about our NHS. The NHS in West Essex received £371m in 2016/17, a 6.3% increase. By 2020, Essex will receive £49.9m of additional funding for social care. We now have 27 more doctors and 35 more nurses looking after residents. I'm working hard to get a new hospital in Harlow and I'll keep working hard to get the investment we need.

I love Harlow and our villages. I will fight for Harlow, I will champion Harlow, and I will always work hard for residents. Please support me on 8th June.

Best wishes,

Remembering your loved one

Beautiful memories treasured forever,
Of the happy years we spent together.
Life is eternal, love will remain,
In God's own time we'll meet again.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When the one we loved was called away;
God loved her too and thought it best,
To take her home with Him to rest.

In silence he suffered,
With patience he bore;
Till God called him home,
To suffer no more.

FILM REVIEWS

With Damon Smith

BARELY AFLOAT

The iconic 1990s TV series starring David Hasselhoff and Pamela Anderson dives onto the big screen and paddles through a weak comedic undercurrent in Seth Gordon's potty-mouthed blockbuster.

Relocated from the golden beaches of Los Angeles County in California to the fictitious, body beautiful paradise of Emerald Bay in Florida, this beefed-up Baywatch aims for the same jocular tone as the recent 21 Jump Street revamp.

Screenwriters Damian Shannon and Mark Swift embrace toilet humour with sniggering gusto, including one protracted sequence involving a male character getting his lower portions wedged between wooden slats of a beach recliner.

It's not enough to allude to the swollen obstruction.

Director Gordon captures the humiliation in lurid close-up then lowers the tone further with full frontal male nudity that requires Zac Efron to manhandle the undercarriage of a deceased male.

Throughout each filthy-minded interlude, Dwayne Johnson flashes the winning smile that has elevated him to the most bankable film star in the world.

Tomfoolery abruptly stops every time a swimmer gets into trouble and director Gordon awkwardly shifts gears to orchestrate propulsive action sequences that remind us these puerile pranksters are employed to save lives.

BAYWATCH (15)

The tug-of-war between goofball comedy and heroism tears at the seams of Baywatch and the film is caught between the irresistible star power and charm of The Rock and a hard place.

Mitch Buchannon (Johnson)

leads the lifeguards of Emerald Bay, encouraging his crack team to stay alert in their figure-hugging bikinis and shorts.

Every summer, they audition new recruits on a punishing obstacle course, which Mitch and co have nicknamed the Absentee Father.

This year, disgraced former Olympian Matt Brody (Efron), strong-willed Summer Quinn (Alexandra Daddario) and socially awkward misfit Ronnie (Jon Bass) are selected to train under Mitch, Second-in-command Stephanie Holden (Ilfenesh Hadera) and dreamy blonde CJ Parker (Kelly Rohrbach).

During initiation, Mitch becomes suspicious of Victoria Leeds (Priyanka Chopra), who owns the swanky beach-front Huntley Club.

He fears that Victoria is flooding the beach with drugs to drive down property prices.

Mitch and the team investigate in strict defiance of orders from Captain Thorpe (Rob Huebel).

However, success depends on new boy Matt, whose heavy drinking continually undermines Baywatch's covert investigations, bringing the lifeguards into conflict with local cop Garner Ellerbee (Yahya Abdul-Mateen II).

"You got one job," the officer reminds Mitch, "make sure swim-happy white people don't drown".

Wearing its 15 certificate with blushing pride, Baywatch peddles nudity, swearing and exploding bodily fluids to appeal to the target teenage demographic.

Cameos from Hasselhoff and Anderson, the latter performing a slow-motion hair toss in designer heels that would be completely unsuitable for a beach, provide tenuous links to the small screen original.

Otherwise, Green's film strikes out on its own and repeatedly face-plants the sand.

ALSO OUT THIS WEEK

Gal Gadot stars as Wonder Woman

WONDER WOMAN (12A)

The iconic DC Comics heroine stole the show in the recent action adventure, Batman V Superman: Dawn Of Justice. Now, Patty Jenkins directs this big budget origin story, based on a script by Allan Heinberg. Diana (Gal Gadot) is an Amazonian princess, who lives on the island of Themyscira under the benevolent rule of her mother, Queen Hippolyta (Connie Nielsen).

Handsome US Army Captain Steve Trevor (Chris Pine) washes ashore during the First World War and is nursed back to health by the Amazonians. He tells Diana about the ongoing conflict with the Germans, whose forces are marshalled by iron-fisted General Erich Ludendorff (Danny Huston).

Horried by the consequences for mankind, Diana vows to leave her home to help end the war. She bids farewell to her mother and aunt Antiope (Robin Wright) to travel to London under the guise of Diana Prince.

Working with Steve and his plucky secretary Etta Candy (Lucy Davis), Diana uses her special talents to wreak havoc on General Ludendorff and mad scientist Doctor Maru (Elena Anaya). Meanwhile, Ares (David Thewlis), son of Zeus, adopts the guise of war council member Sir Patrick Morgan to stoke tension between the Allies and Germany, and bring about the end of mankind.

THE HIPPOPOTAMUS (15)

John Jencks directs this comedy drama adapted from Stephen Fry's novel of the same title, about an embittered poet who puts his cynicism to one side to investigate outlandish claims of miracles in the countryside.

Ted Wallace (Roger Allam) has been forced to sell his creative soul to the devil by becoming a theatre critic in order to pay the bills. Out of the blue, Jane (Emily Berrington) - the niece of Ted's old pal Michael Logan (Matthew Modine) - offers the boozy poet £100,000 to travel to her uncle's country pile Swafford Hall where she claims she was cured of leukaemia.

Convinced to attend by the hefty pay packet, Ted awkwardly reunites with Michael and his wife Anne (Fiona Shaw), who harbour animosity toward Ted about an unfortunate televised incident involving Michael's sister Rebecca (Geraldine Somerville).

As he spies on the family members and visitors to the house, Ted is drawn to Michael's sex-obsessed younger son, David (Tommy Knight).

London Edition

Busy summer calendar can't hide the Planning for Essex awards night well underway

THE events industry is fast-paced and while many people will be in anticipation for upcoming summer events, always a step ahead, brand agency Champions (UK) plc's events team are already in the planning process for an autumn/winter line-up of events – one of these being the Essex Business Excellence Awards.

Set to take place in November 2017, the Essex Business Excellence Awards will highlight a year of success for some of the region's brightest businesses.

Throughout the summer season nominations will be open for the business awards (they close on 25 August at 23.59) where Essex-based businesses can select from 13 categories that best suit their services including 'Company of the Year', 'New Business of the Year' and 'Retail Business of the Year'.

The nomination process may have just launched, but already a great number of businesses have nominated themselves within various categories.

Interest

Categories that have generated a lot of interest so far include the 'Small Business of the Year', 'Contribution to the Community Award' and 'Customer Service Excellence'.

So, we have had a look at some of the companies that have the potential to claim an accolade in these particular categories.

Achievements to be recognised

■ Small Business of the Year
Judges of this award will look at those that have achieved great things with small staff resource (no more than 75 members of full-time staff) and will also consider the prospective growth and development of a business.

Two businesses that think they have what it takes to take home the award include Redline Magazine and Escala Training Academy. Redline Magazine is a motoring magazine that reaches 20,000 people. Escala Training Academy provides training in NVQs and short diploma courses across Essex. Their courses include beauty and hair and nail courses.

■ Contribution to the Community Award
This category looks at businesses that have contributed to the community through various means including society-led projects.

Funky Voices is a community choir bringing fresh and new modern music which can be enjoyed by all members of the community who have entered into the category. The choir have the opportunity to learn 50 songs a year, perform at numerous events and even appear on TV and radio.

Located near Stansted Airport, Park Inn Harlow, which provides a vibrant place for leisure and business travellers, are also hoping the award has their name on it!

■ Customer Service Excellence
Providing trusted, competitive and impartial service to customers across Greater London, Urban Network are a knowledgeable outsourced IT solutions provider.

Chelmsford City Racecourse play host to numerous events and race fixtures throughout the year including Ladies Day in June. The racecourse also offer private hire for meetings and conferences.

These are just two of the companies that have been nominated in this category which focuses on companies that make customer service priority in their day to day operations.

■ Other opportunities to shine
As well as providing a fantastic opportunity for businesses entered into the categories, the Essex Business Excellence Awards brings many benefits for other parties involved, including category sponsors.

There are a number of sponsorship opportunities available. For more information on how you can get involved, visit www.essexbusinessexcellenceawards.co.uk or Victoria Perry at Champions (UK) plc on 01509 85 29 27.

"ETON Mess is a really easy make for your tea party if you fancy something other than cake, and you can genuinely say it's supposed to look a mess if it goes a bit wrong!" says Mel

ETON TRIFLES

MEL'S ETON MESS
(SERVES 6)

INGREDIENTS

400g punnet of strawberries
8 meringue nests (shop bought is fine)
600ml chilled double cream
3 ripe passion fruit
Sprigs of fresh mint and redcurrants to garnish
Good quality honey

METHOD

1. Hull the strawberries and chop them into halves or quarters depending on the size, reserving a few for decoration. Chop the passion fruit in half and scoop the juice and seeds into a bowl.
2. In a separate bowl, roughly break up the meringue nests, crumbling some and keeping some larger, bite size pieces.

3. Now, whisk the cream on a slow speed until soft peaks form, taking care not to over whisk.

4. Using a spatula, gently fold in the berries, broken meringue nests and half the passion fruit into the cream.

5. Spoon the mixture into six small bowls or glasses, top with the reserved strawberries, drizzle with the remaining passion fruit and top with a sprig of fresh mint.
6. Serve immediately with honey for drizzling.

■ For a lower calorie version substitute the cream for a 500g tub of zero fat Greek yoghurt.

Mel is in the mood for a blooming great tea party

TV favourite Mel Giedroyc is urging people to hold a Blooming Great Tea Party in aid of Marie Curie this summer

SHE learned a thing or two about cakes as a presenter on the BBC's Great British Bake Off, and now Mel Giedroyc is putting those skills to use for a good cause.

The TV presenter is supporting Marie Curie's Blooming Great Tea Party, from June 23 to 25, which encourages friends, families or colleagues to host a tea party, bake sale or special tea break to raise funds.

Mel, who has supported the campaign for the last four years says: "I'm supporting the Blooming Great Tea Party because it is the most sublimely joyous, wondrous event that takes place in June for the best cause. My top tip would be to invite more people than you can possibly fit into your house. They will squeeze, don't worry. For cake, people will do anything."

The money raised will help Marie Curie provide vital care and support for people living with a terminal illness, and their families.

"I will bake some refrigerator cake," says Mel. "My mum's recipe - it's delicious. I'll bake some bread and I will bake for my gluten/dairy intolerant friend some coeliac muffins. They're quite bleak, but nice."

Nice slice: Mel Giedroyc says she'll be baking some refrigerator cake for the Blooming Great Tea Party

And does Mel have a signature bake? "A 'No knead loaf' - immensely lazy. Leave it for 18 hours, turn it, sprinkle semolina on and bake it and it's like sour-dough. People have been impressed."

The comedian, who presented Bake Off with pal Sue Perkins, and judges Mary Berry and Paul Hollywood, before it was controversially bought by Channel 4 last year, includes two of her former colleagues when asked who would be on her dream tea party guest list: "Bowie, Kate Bush, Javier Bardem, Berry, and Sue," Mel replies.

And her favourite cake/ biscuit?

"I'm a 1970's girl; Battenberg," she says. "It's the deconstruction of it. I remember as a kid, peeling off the outer marzipan and eating the individual squares. So good. I love marzipan."

So join Mel for a slice of the action and have a blooming great time while raising money for Marie Curie - there's never been a better reason to put the kettle on.

Here are some of Mel's recipes to try at home for your tea party...

Mel with Bake Off buddies Sue Perkins, Mary Berry and Paul Hollywood

I'VE just returned from four amazing days in Spain, and oh it was hot.

I'd like to say I brought a bit of Spain home in the form of hot, hot, hot sunshine (as I write it is scorchio and the dog is weary).

I also brought back a pesky mosquito (or two) which sneaked into my case and pounced as soon as I arrived in Blighty - scritch scratch, is all I can say.

But yes, the sun is out, the delights of summer are here. Just avoid the mozzies.

Here are three seasonal wines from The Wine Society (thewinesociety.com).

■ A red - The Society's Beaujolais Villages 2016 (£7.50, 12.5% abv): Wines labelled Beaujolais Villages are a step above the basic

RAISE A GLASS

WITH JANE CLARE

Beaujolais appellation (and that strange beast Beaujolais Nouveau). Beaujolais wines are made in a special way which produces fruit-forward jammy wines from the gamay grape and this example is bang on the money. It is ruby red, medium bodied (you can see your fingers through it) with redcurrant and raspberry characters. It is laid-back and easy-drinking; light enough to enjoy on its own, or with crispy sausages and charcoal crunched chicken.

■ A white - Anselmo Mendes 'Muros Loureiro, Vinho Verde 2016 (£8.75, 12% abv): I enjoy vinho verde, the Portuguese wine which has a little bit of spritz; no, it's not a sparkling wine but the occasional bubble in a young fresh wine reaches out to greet the sun. This version from the loureiro grape by one of Portugal's leading winemakers, Anselmo Mendes, is zesty, with lime-fresh character and a floral edge that nudges you and says summer is finally here. I like it.

■ A pink - Rosé Duo des Plages Vin de France 2016 (£6.50, 12% abv): This oh-so-blushing salmon pink hails from the Languedoc and is made from cinsault and grenache. A couple of seashells on the label suggest a lifestyle option of beach towel, an icebox, this wine, a tuna salad and fresh strawberries. Run up the beach to buy ice cream if you must. The pink has subtle aromas of lemon pith, apple and gooseberry, is dry, refreshing and... well, it is summery.

■ The society has a new click and collect service. If you're not at home to receive your wines you can have them delivered to one of over 3,000 stores nationwide.

Also in my glass... Two Provence pinks, which say summer, summer, summer. Château Pigoudet, La Chapelle Rosé (RRP £10.89, Majestic, 12% abv) is from the Coteaux d'Aix en Provence where the chateau is next to the River Durance and is coated in lots of sunshine. It has a nose of grapefruit and cranberry with the dryness of grapefruit in the mouth and a lift of red fruits.

Berne, Grande Récolte, Côtes de Provence, 2016 (RRP £10, Tesco, 13% abv) is an architectural bottle with statement, tall and square-edged like a cowboy's jaw - but the wine is floral, fruity and feminine. It is the softest of this week's three pinks, with subtle flavours of ripe peach and strawberry.

For the sweet pastry
180g of plain flour plus extra for rolling out
100g cold butter cut into cubes
1tbsp icing sugar
Zest and juice of 3 large lemons
1 egg yolk, save the white for the meringue

For the lemon filling

100g golden caster sugar
Zest and juice of 3 large lemons, strain the juice to remove any lumps
Juice of an orange, strained
80g butter

3 egg yolks and 1 whole egg, saving the whites for the meringues
2tbsp cornflour

For the meringue topping

3 large egg white
180g golden caster sugar
1tbsp cornflour

METHOD

1. To make the pastry, combine the ingredients and a tablespoon of cold water in a blender and pulse until combined.

2. Tip out onto a clean, floured surface and bring it together into a ball, being careful not to over work the pastry.

3. Wrap the pastry in cling film and place in the fridge to chill for 20 to 30 minutes.

4. Pre-heat the oven to 180°C

SIMPLY THE ZEST

LEMON MERINGUE PIE
(SERVES 6-8)

(gas mark 6). Remove the chilled pastry from the fridge and on a lightly floured surface roll out into a ½cm thick circle.

5. Lifting it carefully with the rolling pin, place the pastry into a 9½-inch fluted, loose bottom, non-stick pie tin.
6. Push it down gently into the edges of the tin with your fingers making sure you don't stretch the pastry and leaving the edges of the pastry to over-hang the pie tin.

7. Prick the base with a fork and line with baking parchment.

8. Fill with baking beans and blind bake the pastry for 15 minutes.

9. Remove the parchment and beans and bake for a further five minutes until the pastry is a lovely pale golden colour.

10. Take a rolling pin and lightly roll across the top edges of the tin to remove the excess and to get a smooth finish on the pie edge. Lower the oven heat to 150°C (gas mark 2).

11. For the lemony filling, combine the sugar, cornflour and lemon zest in a saucepan and gradually stir in the lemon juice. In a small measuring jug make the orange juice up to 200ml with cold water and gradually add to the saucepan.

12. Heat the mixture over a low heat stirring constantly until it starts to thicken. Once the mixture starts to bubble take it off the heat and beat in the butter until combined.

13. Whisk the egg yolks and slowly add to the mixture and place back on a low heat.

14. Stir continuously until the mixture thickens and pour into the prepared pastry case while you prepare the meringue topping.

15. Now make the meringue. Using a large, clean, grease-free mixing bowl whisk the egg whites on a medium speed until they form stiff peaks.

16. Gradually add the combined sugar and cornflour a tablespoon at a time until combined and you have a lovely white glossy mixture.

17. Top the filling with the meringue, starting from the pastry edges spoon the mixture evenly over, sealing any gaps. With the back of a spoon create a swirl or textured peaks on the meringue for a rustic look.

18. Bake in the centre of the oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until the meringue is starting to brown and crisp. Let it stand for 10 minutes before serving warm, or serve cold with a drizzle of fresh cream.

■ Recipe from Marie Curie.

"MY MUM was an amazing hostess and a brilliant baker. My all-time favourite cake is still mum's chocolate fridge cake," says Mel.

CHILLING ME SOFTLY

MEL'S MUM'S REFRIGERATOR CAKE

INGREDIENTS

250g/8oz digestive biscuits; 100g/3½oz unsalted butter; 150g/5oz golden syrup; 300g/10oz milk or dark chocolate; 100g/3½oz raisins; 100g/3½oz baby marshmallows (or use big ones and cut them up)

METHOD

1. Line a baking tin (20cm/8in in size) with cling film, leaving some hanging over the sides.

2. Put the biscuits into a plastic bag then hit until broken into pieces (I use a tin of beans!).

3. Place a heatproof bowl over a saucepan of simmering water and melt the butter, syrup and chocolate.

4. Stir until melted then remove from the heat.

5. Mix in the biscuit pieces, raisins and marshmallows.

6. Spoon into the tin, press the top down well with the back of a spoon.

7. Leave until cool, then transfer to the fridge to set (one or two hours).

8. To serve, put a large plate over the tin, turn upside down, and remove the tin and cling film.

9. Cut into 24 small squares. Delicious!

SOUND OUT

I was in an emotional whirlpool dealing with all these deaths...

THE sudden death of George Michael was a sad time for Imagination singer Lee John. They had known each other from the early days when best-selling records and appearances on Top Of The Pops were just a dream for them both.

"He replaced me in a group I was in called Fizzz," remembers Lee, "before I was in Imagination and he was singing with Andrew (Ridgeley). I was singing in bingo halls and everywhere."

"I was even a singing waiter at one point and I did backing vocals for Elvis Costello's F Beat records. It paid me enough to go to St Lucia for that summer."

He smiles: "I really don't know where I got the energy from. Fizzz had George as the singer when I left and he was singing all the songs I used to sing."

"We met many times over the years and even went to a Whitney Houston concert together once. It was a memorable night; one of my great memories."

Lee paid tribute following the former Wham! singer's death, saying on Twitter: "Please give a prayer in your thoughts to the family, friends and fans of George Michael for the loss of an amazing talent."

Recording his forthcoming album Retropia has also helped Lee deal with the death of his sister, Linda, and three close friends in the space of the year.

"I felt like I was in an emotional whirlpool trying to deal with all these deaths and supporting my family, especially my mother."

"It was a very stressful period and I've pushed out a lot of stuff."

"I think I dealt with it all through my music and recording this album. It was my escape in a way."

British soul group Imagination set the charts alight in the 1980s selling more than 30 million records with hits like Body Talk and Just An Illusion.

Singer/songwriter Lee, 59, says he wrote the lyrics for Body Talk sitting at his mum's kitchen table and it was recorded in just one take. "It became an instant hit with DJs and the whole underground scene," he remembers.

His flamboyant style got Lee and the group noticed right from the start.

"My attic is like a museum of music history," he chuckles. "I think I've got some see-through suits there, some of the original scarves..."

"I really need to clear everything out. There've been so many clothes. I've given some to charity and a fan bought the gold suit with one leg longer than the other."

"I look at myself in photos sometimes and think 'what was I on'. But it was fun. I think I was responsible for the craze for

Music has helped Imagination singer Lee John through some tough times. MARION McMULLEN talks to him about his new album and memories of George Michael Effortlessly stylish, Lee is from north London - not America as everyone thinks. Left, George Michael, who Lee had known from their early days starting out in music glitter headbands and we wore glitter leg warmers as well."

Lee always wanted to front a group, but shied away from the nine to 10-strong outfits that were popular at the time. "No one gets to make any money that way," he says practically. "I followed the example of Sting and The Police - he says, 'have three people and bring in session players when you need them.'"

"The first time we appeared on Top Of The Pops I remember Siouxsie and The Banshees were on as well and Odyssey singing Going Back To My Roots."

"We were 44 in the charts and another band had dropped out so we were a last-minute replacement. I was a bag of nerves, but I was determined no one was going to know it. It was the era of shoulder pads and curly perms, but no one had seen anything like us and I've never stopped since."

The funk veteran has appeared on Doctor Who opposite Peter Davison's Time Lord, featured in ITV show Reborn In The USA and is an ambassador for the charity SOS Children's Villages.

His prolific career has seen him enjoy success as a solo performer, collaborator, songwriter, producer and, more recently a film-maker. He's been filming a history of UK black music called Flashback for the last few years and hopes it will become an eight-part series, with an album and book as well. Lee has filmed more than 80 interviews with the likes of Ruby Turner and Shalamar's Jeffrey Daniels, Eddy Grant and Beverley Knight.

It's been a labour of love for Lee, who says he still has to pinch himself when he's appearing at festivals with the likes of Chic, Nile Rodgers and Sister Sledge.

"Everyone thinks I'm American," he laughs, "but I tell them 'no, I'm from north London. I'm the only British one here.'"

"I've been very lucky. I've had a large international following for years. I'm a live artist, I love performing and being on the road doing shows. It's just fun."

"With the way things are in the world at the moment, I think you need escape. People want to come along and hear some good sounds. It's all about keeping the music alive."

"I've worked with Terence Trent D'Arby and Neville Staple from The Specials on the new album... there's even a version of Highway To Hell. People might not be expecting that."

THE CHARLATANS - DIFFERENT DAYS

DIFFERENT Days is the 13th album from The Charlatans, their follow-up to the brilliant Modern Nature.

Paul Weller, Sharon Horgan, Ian Rankin, Kurt Wagner are just a few names on the daunting list of contributors. Johnny Marr plays on three songs - the best, Plastic Machinery, a pulsing, Faces-esque stomper.

So many contributors could cause the album to lose focus, but there is a freshness and confidence throughout. Where most of their contemporaries rely on past glories, The Charlatans continue to confound expectations by producing their best material late in their career.

GUY WAMPA & JUSTIN PERCIVAL - AMMUT

YORKSHIRE-BASED electronic duo Guy Wampa & Justin Percival's second LP Ammut, is a soulful, yet industrial pop soundscape. The overall feeling from this conceptual piece is carried by a rich and silky voice dripping with melancholy.

Divide And Conquer has an undertone of a person trapped in a half-life, stretching to reach something bigger and better.

Each track takes you on a journey, seamlessly running into the next. The bleakness of Guy Wampa's background juxtaposed with the hopeful voice of Justin Percival.

For The Talkers becomes much more hopeful and the round bass sound starts to feel bouncy and lively, with anthemic chord progressions.

MABEL - BEDROOM (EP)

SELF-WORSHIPPING stars of MTV's Cries christened it the room "where the magic happens", and Mabel's take leaves little to the imagination.

The title track to this terrific electrified R&B EP is a brutal telling of a relationship crumbling. "I broke your guitar up against your television and I smashed every glass that you had in your kitchen," Mabel sings.

She is the 21-year-old daughter of pop star Neneh Cherry and Massive Attack/Sugababes producer Cameron McVey, and brings their verve to her music. On Finders Keepers she begs a lover to "keep the talk minimal".

There are similarities here, within its darkness and flickerings of light, with Jessie Ware's best moments.

Mabel's parents should approve.

HOT HOUSE

Estate agents Howick and Brooker are looking for a bid in the region of £800,000 for the property in Mulberry Gardens in Mulberry Green.

Over three storeys the house contains a master double bedroom, with fitted cupboards and en suite shower and two further double bedrooms and a family bathroom.

The top floor has two more bedrooms with a shower room and study space.

At the heart of the house is the stunning well equipped kitchen diner which enjoys state of the art appliances and a central breakfast bar with a separate utility.

The interior, however, only tells half the story as a unique selling point is the westerly facing rear gardens. The peaceful outdoor space contains a patio and summer house which could be converted into a gym or office.

There is a single garage to the side of the property with two allocated parking spaces and casual parking to the front of the house.

Mulberry Gardens is in a gated development of similar houses and provides the perfect environment for a family.

The house is also convenient for Harlow Mill station, a ten minute walk away, and the M11 motorway.

Parents might also be attracted by the large choice of schools in the area with Fawbert and Barnard, Harlowbury and Churchgate Street primary schools nearby.

The large choice of amenities in Old Harlow centre is another plus, with a selection of pubs and restaurants nearby.

For inquiries call Howick and Brooker 01279 418888 or email paul.brooker@hbproperty.co.uk

HOME STYLE

With Chris Read

Be it curtains, blinds or shutters, there's a huge choice with something for every room

When I was learning my trade as an interior designer, I naively thought curtains would be a simple subject to get my head around. Well, 16 years later I'm still learning and the one thing that has been thoroughly absorbed is that window coverings are a black art!

I'm not going to give the master class here because firstly, I'm not a master, and secondly, it needs a book. Or just possibly a library. But there are some hints and tips that will make your life easier when choosing how to cover your windows and organising their making and hanging.

If you're planning a room from scratch, most people go for the wall colour or the carpet first, on the logic that these are large areas and will set the scene.

Normally, though, I go for window coverings first, wall colours last.

There are myriad paint colours to choose from, all within a reasonably tight price bracket, but when choosing fabric you can go from around £10 to over £200 a metre. So sticking to your budget reduces choice, as does getting the right style and colour group and tones you want.

There's nothing more frustrating than finding the right fabric but the colours don't work with what you've just put on the walls!

You need to love it too, because why have it otherwise? It's not cheap to have curtains made and hung, so you want to get them right.

What you put at the windows can set the scene for the whole room. So start there and the rest will follow much more easily.

Covered windows are a must in bedrooms, and in other rooms, even if you are not overlooked by neighbours, think what it would be like in the dark winter evenings when all you can see is darkness or your own reflection. Where it is difficult to cover a window, or a client is set against it, I suggest outside lighting which helps reduce that goldfish bowl feeling.

If you are covering the window, there is a huge choice: Blinds of all types, be they vertical, roller, Roman, or Venetian – it seems the Italians have cornered the blind market; shutters of the French or New England style; voiles to filter light but not exclude it; adhesive film to provide a frosted effect, and then every type of curtain you can think of.

I usually start with curtains because of a deeply held view that they dress a room, and use blinds and other options only where they work best practically. But never, never, never vertical blinds in the home, far too officious. Move away from them now...

Wherever possible curtains should be full length – a short pair never looks elegant.

Do not get me started on radiators under windows, I have had this argument so many times – curtains provide thermal insulation, and in the days of double and triple glazing, we should be looking for other places for the radiators. Like where they warm the

WINDOW DRESSING

This dramatic fall of curtains found in Harlequin's new Anthozoa collection beautifully illustrates the potential of curtains – they make this room come alive room rather than the window space. I can hear howls from some builders as I type....

My particular prejudices now aired, here is a gallop through some of the other things to take into account.

Generally speaking, tracks are more contemporary in style than poles, but can limit your options for types of headings. If you do prefer poles, a common mistake is to position the brackets very close to the

I would generally recommend lining so that curtains hang better, give good insulation and keep light out, but if you want an informal, airy and light touch, leave unlined. This fabric, from the Breeze collection by Prestigious Textiles, is extra wide, meaning no unsightly joins window opening, with the result that most of your open curtains hang over the window, excluding light.

With tracks, go for a decent aluminium one and your curtains will be a joy to open and close. Apart from dusting, once a year use a silicon spray to maintain an easy glide on both poles and tracks.

If the contemporary look is for you, get a crisp look by hanging your curtains from a track on the ceiling.

I've been experimenting recently with hanging curtains on just one side of the window, which again can have a more modern feel – akin to painting a small wall in a softly contrasting colour, rather than having a feature wall.

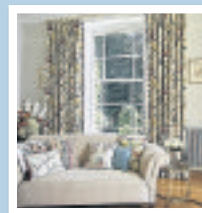

So many curtains, so little time. I may have to lie down in a darkened room.

THE BEST LOOK FOR YOU

Taking it as read that curtains are the default covering ('treatment' in the trade, my dears), here are the pros and cons to bear in mind

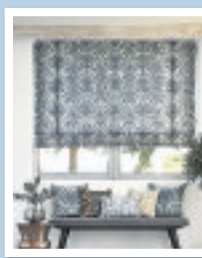

CURTAINS

YES, expensive and they need careful making and fitting to get them to look their best, but give a good return on your investment. The aim is for them to hang in neat folds just to the floor, and, when open, with the fabric just covering the edge of the window, as with these from the Wordsworth collection by Prestigious Textiles.

ROMAN BLINDS

ROMANS inside a window look very clean lined, but cut down light. You need to ensure the window doesn't look too bare in the day. Good for bathrooms and kitchens where lots of fabric would be a nuisance. Invest in a proper cassette to hang the blind on, and make sure you comply with all the regulations about child safety (any reputable company providing blinds will ensure this). These roman blinds are in Harlequin Molokai, and the tie die patterns soften the look.

ROLLER BLINDS

FOR inside a window only, and they don't grab the light. The most minimal of looks. I once stayed in a hotel with white painted walls, white bedding and furniture and white roller blinds (it's a glamorous life). Sensory deprivation ensued. So go for colour or pattern here, like these lush tropical ones from English Blinds.

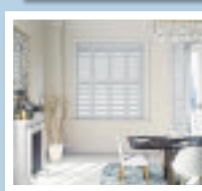

VENETIAN BLINDS

VENETIANS are versatile, and great if you live on a busy road or are overlooked, as you can easily angle them to keep your privacy but maximise light. A bit of a so and so to clean, but repay the effort. This venetian in pure white by English Blinds show how fabulous they can look in the right setting.

SHUTTERS

THESE look lovely and and they can be very practical. Two things to watch here – they are not sound absorbent in the way curtains are and rooms can feel very echoey and not relaxing. If you go for them, go the whole shebang. It looks very odd from outside to see one or two windows with shutters and the rest not. This airy set in duck egg blue, a nice change from white, are from Blinds2go.

The majority of listed buildings are Grade II

Renovation game

1 The older a building is, the more chance there is that it's listed.

As a general rule, listing applies to all buildings built before 1700 and to most built between 1700 and 1840.

The vast majority of listed buildings are Grade II listed, but more important ones are Grade II* and the most important are Grade I. In Scotland, categories A, B and C are used instead of grades.

The listing applies to the whole exterior and interior of the building, and sometimes attached structures and buildings.

2 Listed buildings are considered to be of special historical or architectural interest of national importance.

More important buildings are Grade II* or Grade I listed

Listing doesn't mean that the building can't be altered or extended – it often can, but the local council will have more control over what changes are made to it and may refuse permission for alterations if it doesn't think they're appropriate.

Listed building consent is required to make alterations and while some home improvements, such as internal redecoration, can often be done without consent, many others, such

If you own a listed building, home improvements aren't as simple as they may otherwise be, so it's essential to play by the rules, says JULIA GRAY as removing original features, knocking down walls and changing the windows and doors, can't.

Many local councils identify locally listed buildings, which are considered historically important to the area but are not officially listed.

You don't require listed building consent to alter locally listed properties, but if you make an application for planning permission, the local listing is likely to be taken into account by the council.

3 Listed building consent is obtained from your local council and is a similar process to applying for planning permission – sometimes you'll need planning as well.

Historic England (see historicengland.org.uk/listing/ for information on listed buildings); Historic Scotland (historic-scotland.gov.uk) or Cadw in Wales (cadw.gov.wales) may be consulted by the council about whether the alterations would be appropriate, especially with more important listed buildings.

4 Before making any changes to a listed building, consult your local council's conservation department, as even work that seems minor may require consent. The department should be able to offer advice about what sort of work is considered appropriate for the building – and what isn't – and the consent process.

Altering, demolishing or extending a listed building without consent is a criminal offence and can result in a prison sentence and large fine, as well as other costs.

5 If listed building consent is granted, you'll probably have to use traditional building materials and techniques to comply with it.

These are often more expensive and specialised than standard ones – traditional lime plaster instead of conventional modern plaster, for example – as replacements are often on a like-for-like basis.

PRODUCT OF THE WEEK

If you're painting dark wood or an exposed-brick wall, you often find that the colour keeps coming through the paint, however many coats you apply. The answer is to use a stain block paint first, but most stain blocks are so thick that they're hard to apply to uneven surfaces like wood and bricks.

Zinsser B-I-N Shellac-Based Primer Sealer

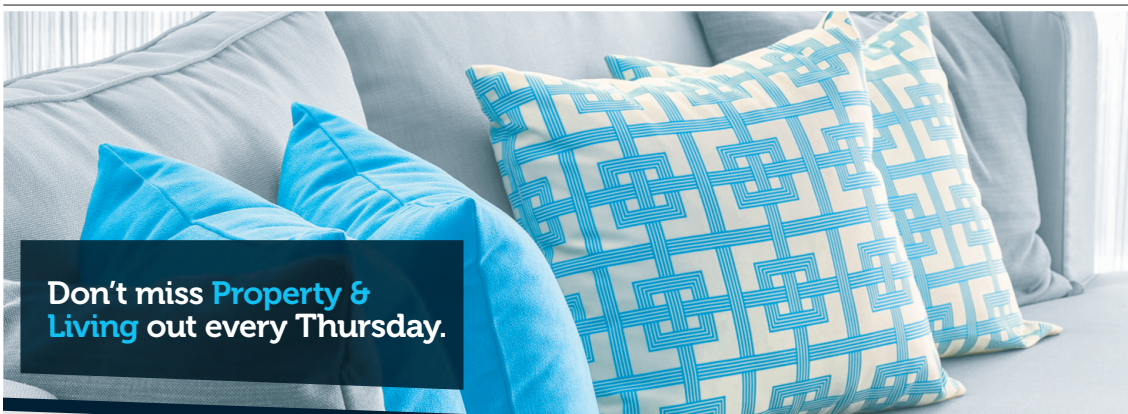

(from £23.99 for 1ltr, Screwfix) is much runnier than most stain blocks and so easy to work into uneven surfaces.

It also dries much quicker than most stain blocks – it's recoatable in just 45 minutes.

Other uses include priming glossy surfaces (even glass), blocking odours and sealing resinous knots.

Stain block can help stop colour coming through your paint work

PROPERTY TALK

With Nigel Lewis

Brearley Hall

HALL OR NOTHING FOR BRONTË BROTHER

The extraordinary and world-famous lives of the Brontë sisters often obscures the brief and sometimes miserable life of their only brother, Branwell.

While his sisters Charlotte, Emily and Anne went on to write the classics Jane Eyre, Wuthering Heights and The Tenant of Wildfell Hall, he only achieved limited literary success despite possessing similar talents.

Branwell flitted from job to job including stints as a children's tutor, classroom assistant and railway station clerk. But he was almost always fired for inappropriate behaviour, usually linked to his alcoholism and use of narcotics.

There were some high points in this life. He was an accomplished artist and painted one of the most cherished portraits of the Brontë sisters, which now hangs in the National Portrait Gallery. And he was the first in the family to have his writings published, kicking off with his 1841 poem Heaven and Earth.

And at one point his career also nearly took off; as a clerk in charge of Luddendenfoot Railway Station east of Halifax and only 10 miles from his home village of Haworth.

He began the job in 1840, was soon promoted and lived grandly at nearby Brearley Hall in Calderdale. But he was dismissed from the post in 1842 after money went missing from the station's till. Grade II listed and 17th century Brearley Hall is now for sale at £1.5 million.

It has nine bedrooms, and comes with a cottage and 44 acres of land. But like its former resident, it could do with improvement, says agent Carter Jonas (0113 2031090).

Actor Michael Fassbender is best known for his action-thriller movie roles including the recently released Alien Covenant. But the German-born Irish actor would appear to have a softer side.

Fassbender, pictured below, has recently spent $2 million on a Portuguese apartment within Alfama, a fashionably cool and quiet area of Lisbon.

His new home is within the Santa Helena Palace has been undergoing what the developer describes as the "most significant restoration of a private, period building in the city's history" and used to belong to a local aristocrat. It's also near Lisbon Cathedral, a major tourist local draw.

The palace has been turned into 21 one to five-bedroom apartments and comes with high ceilings, large windows and, in some cases, private gardens, terraces and swimming pools. And like Fassbender, residents of Santa Helena Palace will enjoy secure parking and concierge services.

Many properties within the redeveloped pile, which are arranged over three separate areas of the building, have views over both the Mediterranean below and the rooftops of the area. And who knows, you might also spot your famous neighbour.

Prices at the development for the remaining seven apartments range from €725,000 for a one-bed apartment to €1.85 million for a five-bedder.

If you want to know where hip hop star and Mercury-prize winning Dizzee Rascal bangs out his hits then look no further than this ordinary-looking back street in a suburb of south London.

Famed for hits such as Bonkers, Dizzee Rascal has based his recording studio and business on this road in Forest Hill for several years.

But despite its rough and ready looks, the street is much sought after as a haven for artists and artisans of all kinds, and has been given Conservation Area status.

It is home to 19 painters as well as Dizzee and prices on the road have been climbing steeply in recent years. One of the artist's homes next door to Dizzee has come up for sale, the studio of contemporary sculptor and Turner Prize nominated David Mach, who is most famous for his 1989 installation of tumbling red telephone boxes. His home and workshop is for sale at an astounding £2.7 million - reflecting the demand for artist studios on this creative cul-de-sac.

STUDIOS ARE A HAVEN FOR ARTISTS

The studio is described by agent The Modern House as a "raw and characterful" former warehouse with a studio/workshop on the ground floor and an apartment on the second floor which is a large open-plan living area plus two bedrooms, a bathroom overlooking an inner courtyard, a kitchen-diner and roof terrace.

STING'S CRISP NEW YORK PAD

When Sting sang about being an Englishman in New York in his 1987 solo hit he was not talking about being a legal alien himself, but describing the life of Quentin Crisp.

Crisp moved to New York in 1981 and met Sting during the making of the 1985 film The Bride, and the pair became friends.

Like his friend, Sting had moved to New York during the 1980s and at first bought an apartment at 88 Central Park West from fellow musician Billy Joel. He subsequently sold that and then bought an apartment overlooking Central Park for $26.98 million with his wife and film producer Trudie Styler.

It's as flamboyant as Crisp's famously colourful personality and covers 5,400 square ft and the two top floors of an apartment block at 15 Central Park West.

It has three bedrooms and six bathrooms including one adjoining the master bedroom which has views of Central Park from its bath tub - as does its extraordinary terrace.

Sting and Trudie are also due to make a colossal profit on the apartment, which they are selling for $56 million, over $30 million more than they paid for it.

AT HOME WITH FOOTBALL FAME

When Leicester City waited to see if they had won the Premier League last year, the club's striker Jamie Vardy and his team mates watched the deciding match between Chelsea vs Tottenham at his house.

But Jamie and his wife Rebekah have since revealed they wished they hadn't allowed the cameras in, as everyone in the area now knows where they live.

As a result Jamie, and his family have moved out to a farmhouse near Grantham.

The departure from their old house was clearly a relatively swift one; agent Savills' pictures show a back garden still sporting two football nets. The house, which is in Melton Mowbray and bought by Jamie in 2015 is now for sale at £1.25 million.

An eight-bedroom detached mansion Cloughmore House was built in 1968 on the southern edge of the town. It comes with 0.7 acres of gardens as well as many of Jamie's fixtures and fittings including a full-size snooker table, a playground, steel artwork on the front drive and a stunning chandelier in the kitchen diner.

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

It's was Chelsea Flower Show last week – for many the highlight of the horticultural calendar. But there has been one significant change this year – the smaller number of show gardens, with various reasons being given.

A lack of sponsors, say some, but from personal experience it may be time the RHS appreciated those sponsors who do contribute so much and indeed treat the garden designers better.

If lessons aren't learnt, this venerable show which has persevered through thick and thin, may lose its lustre. I've never been one for the formulaic show gardens and with this year's crop, once again there was a feeling I'd seen much of it before.

However, it's always lovely to view gardens, absorbing ideas and marvelling at the technical ability to seduce plants into the grandest of shows for the starting bell on the Monday of the third week of May.

My method when reviewing Chelsea is to look beyond the obvious and study the smaller, quieter areas in search of sparkles of passion in courtyard and artisan plots.

In addition this year, there were the Radio 2 Feelgood Gardens based on the five senses. Chris Evans fronted the Taste Garden, designed by Jon Wheatley, and my favourite was the Jeremy Vine Texture Garden, designed by Matt Keightley.

His planting was an exploration of different plant textures, featuring many different leaf shapes – architectural ferns, soft mossy mounds, heart-shaped epimediums and lots of clipped Pinus mugo.

In some areas, his planting was ethereal, a dreamy mix of floaty perennials and feathery grasses – pink umbels, Stipa tenuissima and pale yellow poppies danced behind veils of bronze fennel – delicious!

And there were occasional bursts of vivid colours with Iris 'Kent Pride', Cirsium atropurpureum, and Verbascum 'Firedance'. And, of course, Chelsea is all about plants.

The Great Pavilion is a dream for all plantaholics to admire the very best that British nurseries can produce. Every year the RHS awards a prize for the best new plant and past winners in this horticultural hall of fame include the very popular Geranium 'Rozanne', Anemone 'Wild Swan' and Digitalis 'Illumination'.

This year's award went to a dwarf mulberry bush called 'Charlotte

It's every plant lover's dream, but there's a lot to take in at the Chelsea Flower Show... Here's my rundown of what was hot and what was not this year

Radio 2's Jeremy Vine in the wonderful Texture garden

Russe! It was introduced to the market this spring by Suttons and the first batch sold out within a week.

It's the perfect size for small gardens and patios as it only reaches a height of 1.5m.

It's a self-pollinating plant that produces berries from June to September on plants that are only one year old – most mulberry plants take around eight years to mature.

I also like the runner-up – Salvia 'Crystal Blue'. Salvias are great plants for the herbaceous border as they are low maintenance and long flowering.

This new variety from Hardy's Cottage Garden Plants is unusual for its light sky-blue colour – a pastel which will blend well with other gentle hued cottage garden plants.

Thompson and Morgan came in third place with a delightful orange hibiscus. 'Petit Orange' is a compact variety, perfect for the patio, but remember it is tender and will need to come in before the first frost.

And no visit to Chelsea is complete without a trip to the rose stands.

Peter Beales Classic Roses have introduced a new shrub 'Margaret Greville' which has delightful tight buds of deep coral pink that open to semi-double coral and salmon pink blooms.

It's tolerant to poorer soil and can be grown successfully as a hedge, reaching 4ft in height and is very free flowering. On David Austin's stand, the new rose is Vanessa Bell, a beautiful free-flowering shrub rose with delicate yellow blooms with a green tea fragrance.

I missed exhibiting at Chelsea this year because, despite a generous offer of sponsorship, I couldn't endure the RHS mandarins for the second year in a row – and perhaps the sobering number of entries will encourage a rethink.

Best new plant: Charlotte Russe

Runner-up: Salvia Crystal Blue

It's time to plant out tomatoes

Time for tomatoes to see the light

■ ON sunny days, it can really heat up in the greenhouse. Use shading when necessary and keep everything watered daily.

■ IN the veg garden you can sow courgettes, runner beans, French beans, sweetcorns and marrows outdoors as well as successional sowing of radishes, lettuces, spring onions. Thin out seedlings sown earlier.

■ PLANT tomato plants outdoors and pinch out any sideshoots.

JOBS FOR THE WEEK

■ INSPECT gooseberries for sawfly, remove if found and prune current season's growth back to five leaves. This shouldn't remove any developing fruit which grows mainly on old wood.

■ IF growing strawberries – cover the soil with black plastic or straw underneath them. Start weekly feed when fruit begins to form. I'm trying out Slug Gone natural wool barrier pellets around my strawberries – they're supposed to stop slugs in their tracks as well as acting as mulch and feed as they break down.

■ KEEP an eye out for aphids – especially if you have lupins and roses. You can remove by hand or with a hose.

■ LAWNS need weekly mowing so make sure you have a compost bin or area to put clippings to good use.

Look out for aphids

ASK DIARMUID

Q MY niece's front garden is inundated with wild garlic. It's coming up all over the lawn and in the flower beds, as well as all around the rose roots. It's far too much to try to dig up, apart from the fact that they also go down so far. What can she do?

Teresa Cable

A WILD garlic is a charming sight in the woodlands but not so much fun when it invades your garden. Digging them up is indeed laborious – some of the younger bulbs are so small that you might miss them anyway.

The only other route is using a weedkiller which is best applied just before they flower. The problem here is that you don't want weedkiller around your roses and flower beds as these will be damaged as well.

It's a thorny issue and I'm afraid either method will take a few years of application to get on top of the problem.

Wild garlic can be stubborn to get rid of

PLANT OF THE WEEK

ARGYRANTHEMUM FRUTESCENS (Marguerite)

I'VE opened a pop-up garden centre in the past week and the best-seller by far is that most cheerful of daisy, the marguerite.

There's nothing subtle about it. It's a summer showstopper with an orange button at its heart, daisy petals in either white, pink or yellow and lush ferny foliage below.

Dead-head throughout the summer to keep flowers coming – the bees love them too. Native to the Canary Islands and Madeira, it is half hardy so overwinter it in the greenhouse or take cuttings for next year.

Subtlety is not often a word used in connection with car designers when they are trying to create a distinctive new model for the showrooms that aims to catch the eye of prospective buyer.

Equally applying to the same designers is that old adage of why change a winning formula?

BMW's Bavarian backroom team has managed to achieve both with their latest 4 Series models because since the original one arrived back in 2013 it has been a huge sales success with the UK the second biggest world market behind the USA leaving the Germans in third place.

It effectively replaced the old 3 Series Coupe and Convertible and last year they sold here 9,136 Coupes, 10,085 four-door Grand Coupes and 4,258 Convertibles and this year all three are expected to top these figures.

As BMW's medium car sales boss here James Thompson explains: "The 4 Series has been a huge success for us and interestingly three out of every four we have sold buyers have opted for the M Sport versions whilst the added bonus is that residuals have held up so well and better than any of its rivals.

"The key to this new, updated range is subtlety because on the surface it may not look any different but there are many changes which we obviously further enhances the model," he added.

Certainly from the outside the styling changes are visibly noticeable with at the front a large air intake with eye-catching bars and LED headlights while the rear light cluster and body have also been tidied up.

Crucially too all three models now have a lower centre of gravity thanks to a wider track (14mm extra front and 20mm at the back), plus there's a revised suspension and improved traction control capabilities, again all rather subtle but clearly meaningful from a driver's viewpoint.

With just three versions now offered – SE, Sport or M Sport with the Luxury models now dropped – and all models also now have new twin LED headlights as standard while the changes to the rear gives the 4 Series a lower and more sporty look with the light clusters certainly creating the muscular wheel arches stand out.

Underneath more subtle changes have been made with the car now having stiffer suspension with better damping and an upgraded steering set-up all helping to yet further improve better handling and greater straight-line stability alongside the usual precise BMW trait of steering, all of which were pretty decent enough in the outgoing models.

Inside this new 4 Series again subtlety is the order of the day with several minor new touches to the furnishings, like the surrounds for the air vents and the control panels in the doors which now feature electroplated inserts, while the air conditioning and audio controls now have chrome surrounds.

It's these small and perhaps to some insignificant changes that does make a difference at the end of the day such as the sports style steering wheel, now fitted as standard across the range, is of a better quality leather and gives the driver a better grip than last time around.

Drivers can also personalise their particular 4 Series model with, for example, a choice of 18-inch or 19-inch light alloy wheels specially made for this range while there are new features on board for sat nav, telephone connectivity, display and controls again making life simpler because of their ease of operation.

There's a wide choice of petrol and diesel engines on tap with Thompson explaining that the expected best selling Coupe will be the 420d (29 per cent of sales), followed by M4 (17 per cent), top Grand Coupe and Convertible models will also have the 420d engine under the bonnet.

So what's the revised 420d like in the Sport Coupe?

In a first drive exercise over some 80 miles or so it's easy to see why this engine will be the most popular because it's so responsive but so quiet for an oil burner and really provides an impressive driving experience, particularly with such a neat, precise six-speed manual gearbox – there is an eight-speed automatic as an option.

The power comes through – yes subtlety as one would expect – with exceptionally good, low down torque from the two-litre 190bhp turbocharged engine while once out on the motorway it's powerful and comfortable making it an ideal long distance cruiser in my book.

With xDrive on board as on the test car this again makes for easy motoring whatever the road conditions and the official combined fuel consumption is 62.8mpg with a 0 to 62mph acceleration of 7.3 seconds and CO2 of 125g/km.

The basic price of the 320d xDrive Sports Coupe is £36,260 but the test car was loaded up with optional extras, such as an advanced parking package (reversing camera and park assist) at £545, driver comfort pack (electric front seats, driver memory seats) at £1,440 and a media pack (£900) plus a sport automatic transmission kit (£1,690), split-folding rear seats (£170) and adaptive LED headlights (£1,200).

The bonus is that LED foglights, sports front seats and 18-inch light alloy wheels are thrown in at no extra cost.

In principle like any new BMW car, or rival luxury medium-sized cars come to that, the buyer has to be conscious of spending too wildly on options without checking the rising costs en route.

Overall though these new 4 Series models are an improvement on the outgoing and keeps it as the best handling car in its class.

Who murdered Evelyn Foster?

In 1931, off a remote Northumberland road, flames rose up into the night. Beyond anyone's help, Evelyn Foster lay near her burning car – herself engulfed in flames. With her last breath she described her assailant: a mysterious man with a bowler hat.

Nearly 90 years after her murder the case remained unsolved. With unprecedented access to the police files has crime writer, Diane Janes, finally tracked the killer down?

Public Notices

Essex County Council

(Unnamed footpath running through underpass below First Avenue, Harlow)
(Temporary Prohibition of Use)
Order 2012

Notice is hereby given that the above Order made by Essex County Council, under s14 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, has been continued in force with the consent of the Secretary of State for the Department for Transport until 11 December 2017.

Effect of the order: to temporarily close that length of Unnamed footpath running through underpass below First Avenue in the District of Harlow from a point 90 metres east of junction with Park Lane proceeding north in an anticlockwise loop beneath First Avenue for its entirety to a point on the south side of First Avenue 54 metres east of Park Lane and 110 metres east of Park Lane.

An alternative route has been provided by the signalled pedestrian crossing immediately to the west of the junction between First Avenue and Park Lane.

The Order came into effect on 11 June 2012 and is required for the safety of the public and workforce while works for the realignment of underpass approach ramp due to the residential development is undertaken.

Liz Burr, Head of Network Management, County Hall, Chelmsford

(A414, Harlow)

(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic & Clearway) Order 2017

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order:

1. To temporarily close that length of A414, Harlow in the District of Harlow, from its junction with A1025 Second Avenue to its junction with Southern Way, a distance of approximately 793 m.

2. A temporary "No Stopping" restriction will be introduced on both sides of carriageway on the above lengths of roads for the duration of the closure to facilitate the works. Signs will be installed indicating when the No Stopping restriction will be in force.

An alternative route is available via A1169 Southern Way, Katherine's Way, Third Avenue, A1025 Second Avenue and vice versa.

"The District of Harlow (On Street) (Waiting, Loading and Parking) (Consolidation) Order 2011" will be temporarily amended to include the temporary "No Stopping at Any Time" restriction and suspend any existing parking and waiting restrictions on the above lengths of roads only. All other restrictions and exemptions contained in the aforementioned Order and Amendments to that Order shall remain in force.

The works being undertaken will take place within an 18-month period from 01/06/2017 exact dates will be specified on <http://roadworks.org/>. The roads will be closed to facilitate each phase and then re-opened to the public. Access will be maintained for emergency services. Diversion routes will be signed at each location and residents will be informed of the dates of each phase via letter/leaflet drop and advanced warning signs on the road.

For all enquiries please contact our Contact Centre on 0345 603 7631.

The Order will come into effect on 01/06/2017 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

One return every retailer will welcome

We recently commissioned the effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking to analyse what happens when a company includes press advertising in their media mix.

They examined over 500 econometric models, covering a five-year period.

In the retail sector they analysed results from supermarkets, department stores and high street chains.

And they found that adding newspapers dramatically boosts other media, increasing the overall effectiveness of the entire campaign, by up to 2.8 times.

In an industry where a few percentage points are often seized on as a signal of runaway success or imminent disaster, this is a truly remarkable return on investment.

And as the table here shows, retail is far from the only category where newspapers deliver outstanding results.

Joy for Jade as she takes golden gloves

A 12-YEAR-OLD from St Mark's West Essex Catholic School in Harlow is celebrating after winning the coveted golden gloves competition.

Jade Huggins, who boxes for Hoddesdon Boxing Academy, secured the club's first ever schoolgirl title after turning in a powerful performance to stop her opponent, Sinead Willbye, in the second round.

The first round saw Jade using her jab well and doubling up, with the right cross constantly hitting the target.

Willbye, from Midlands-based club Phoenix, had no answer to the attacks and retreated onto the ropes as the bell sounded.

Coaches Conrad Peacock and Charlie Smith urged Jade to push forward, and she exactly that did with positive combinations to her opponent's body – forcing the referee to administer two standing eight counts in succession, bringing an end to the fight.

"It was a brilliant effort from Jade, who is the only female competitor at the club, but her work ethic and desire to mix with the boys has paid off and she has been now crowned national champion," said Hoddesdon Boxing Academy head coach Sab Leo.

"Jade was ecstatic and shared her emotions with the coaches who both claimed a national champion in their first seasons at the club.

"She is a talented individual who took up boxing as a way of getting fit – and with it self confidence.

"We saw a natural talent in her and nudged her further.

"She loves the environment and spirit of the club and training alongside the boys does not faze her at all.

"Jade's aunt – Tamasin Mallia – used to box for us as well going back a few years.

"We also run women's boxing classes for older age groups so it becoming increasingly popular – but we're hoping this could be the story that opens the floodgates."

Sharon leads the way for Harlow in latest round

HARLOW Running Club competed in the second round of the Herts/Essex Midweek Road Race League Division Two over a very undulating 10k course at Stevenage.

Once again the ladies team outperformed the men, finishing in second place out of six.

The men finished fifth place and overall Harlow were fourth.

After two rounds Harlow lie in fourth with 15 points, with North Herts Road Runners top on 24 points.

In the ladies race, Sharon Wright finished in a fantastic second place out of 106 finishers in 42min 37sec.

She was followed home by Carinne Jay, fifth and first Female Vet 45 in 43:53; Julia Gardiner, ninth in 45:32 and Paula Reynolds, 10th in 45:32.

Debbie Barry finished in 42nd place and first Female Vet 55 in 52:08, while Paulene Galoppi was 100th and third Female Vet 65 in 65:28.

In the men's race, Rob Lowe came home in 21st out of 176 finishers in a superb 37:28.

Craig Segal was 32nd in 38:38, Alex Smith 39th in 39:03 and Danny McCree 41st in 39:13. Jim Bates finished in 146th place and third Vet 70 in 53:17.

Meanwhile, on a warm and muggy bank holiday Monday, Harlow fielded a total of 47 runners at the Hatfield Broad Oak 10k.

Rich Hynes finished in 18th place out of 1,222 finishers in an excellent 37:01.

Finished

He was followed by Craig Segal, 37th in 39:11, Alex Smith 43rd in 39:36 and Darren Tiley 59th in a PB time of 40:20.

First female in 183rd place was Paula Reynolds in 45:10, followed by Julia Gardiner, 188th in 45:17 and Sandra Rust 267th in 47:26.

At the Edinburgh Marathon, Kerry Mavris finished in 1571st place out of 6110 finishers in 3hr 56min 30sec.

She was followed by Paul Dixon 2082nd, 4.06:54; Andy Ramage, 2444th 4.14:36; Brendon MacLean, 2445th 4.14:36 and Mark Hayward 4425th 4.55:46.

The Eastern Region Tri Relay Championships at Box End Park near Bedford – which consisted of a 750m open water swim, 20km bike ride and a 5km run by teams of three.

Louise Kedge, Holly Nairn and Paula Reynolds finished in 34th place out of 66 finishers in 4.04:57.

Carmen Byfield, Alan Cootes and Nick D'Alton were 51st in 4.14:50, and Michael Gornall, Gail Nicholls and Paul Schroder finished 55th in 4.17:56.

At the Mayfield Sprint Triathlon in Kent – a 500m swim, 24km bike ride and a 5km run – Justin Patten finished in 16th place out of 33 finishers in 1.17:33.

Belhus are left in a spin by Vasani

Harlow move up to second after excellent win

HARLOW Cricket Club's first team enjoyed just about the perfect weekend as they crushed Belhus in glorious sunshine.

With the new clubhouse looking terrific and another belter of a pitch prepared by Cliff Clark, Harlow were in confident mood.

Belhus started the day as leaders of Shephard Neame Essex League Division One, with Harlow only four points behind in fourth place.

Having been put in to bat, the Joyce brothers, Danny (43) and Joe (60), showed both resilience and class in building a solid platform for the visitors.

Mitch Howarde, en route to his eighth wicket of the season, had the former caught behind by Andre Riddell, with Hafiz Afzal clean bowling the latter.

Tight bowling by Harlow ensured Belhus failed to capitalise on their decent start, with only Matt Doran (42) offering serious resistance until he was bowled by Mustanser Meraj.

Ross Vasani bagged four wickets with some great leg-spin bowling, the pick of which was a ball which pitched outside leg-stump and clipped the top of off to dismiss Mason for a duck.

Second wickets for both Afzal and Howarde condemned Belhus to a below-par score of 197 all out off 47.4 overs.

Fourteen-year-old Nathan Khelawon, making his first team debut, was outstanding in the field.

Belhus needed early wickets if they were to deny Harlow their first league win of the season, but it was not to be as Afzal was in terrific form.

Controlled aggression by the experienced opener saw a flurry of boundaries and the game rapidly turned in Harlow's favour.

He struck 16 fours and two sixes on his way to 117 not out.

At the other end Alan Jones (78 not out) was playing the supporting role as the pair racked up 200 off 34 overs to seal the win.

In three league games, Harlow's opening pair have now scored a combined 435 runs for three dismissals, an average of 145.

This was a great performance by Harlow, and saw them move up to second in the table, just four points behind the new league leaders, Woodford Wells.

Victorious

Harlow host a strong Harold Wood side, who narrowly missed out on promotion last season, this Saturday, and then Buckhurst Hill, who dropped down from the Premier Division, the following week.

The second team were also victorious, beating Southend & EMT CC. Harlow bowled first with the opposition scoring 211.7 from 50 overs, with captain Lewis Aldred (2-53), Callum Sykes (2-48) and Luke Monger (2-45) sharing the wickets.

Replying, Harlow scored 212.7 off Zabi Hakimi scoring 77 and Rob Coldwell 43.

■ IN Division Three, Harlow Town welcomed West Essex to Phoenix Park on Saturday.

With Scott Alderson away, Neil Gladwin took the reins and after winning the toss, he inserted the visitors.

West Essex were eventually dismissed for 191, with three of their allotted 50 overs unused.

Replying, Town were in trouble at 59-4, but Daniel Baldwin and Pat Yates put on 50 between them.

After Yates was out, Daniel Farmer arrived at the crease and the pair saw Town cruise home with three overs to spare.

Baldwin finished unbeaten on 84 from 133 balls and Farmer 52 from 48 balls.

Town travel to second placed Westcliff on Sea this Saturday hoping to build on an excellent win.

Harlow's Mitch Howarde took his tally for the season to eight wickets
